

Pound the Pavement:

Faculty and students from the Department of Leadership Studies laced up their running shoes for Pound the Pavement, an initiative to raise funds for the class Leadership 310. The cause is simple: we want to provide LDRS 310 students with the necessary means to focus on their project impact rather than figuring out how to cover minor project expenses. We took the streets of Abilene, KS on April 9th and participated in the Eisenhower Marathon/Half-Marathon/5K. You might be asking who in the world ran that far? Well here's the lineup....

- Christie Brungardt, faculty member - 5K
- Curt Brungardt, faculty member - 5K
- Brett Whitaker, faculty member - 5K
- John Montgomery, faculty member - Half Marathon
- Jill Arensdorf, faculty member - Half Marathon
- Jenna Johnson, student - Half Marathon

That's about 48 collective miles between all of these crazy faculty and students!

John Montgomery, Jill Arensdorf, Jenna Johnson, Brett Whitaker, Diana Arensdorf

John Montgomery, Brett Whitaker, Curt Brungardt, Christie Brungardt, Jill Arensdorf

With several generous contributions and the departmental matching contributions, together we raised $1,000 for future LDRS 310 teams. These resources will be invaluable for students to carry out their community service projects that will have a lasting impact on our communities.