Researching Gender in Rural Communities

- This roundtable includes FHSU faculty and former graduates to discuss researching gender and gendered violence in a rural context.
- Gender relations in rural areas are distinct from urban areas. What do gender relations mean in a rural context? What can we do to offer a gender-responsive approach for justice-involved individuals and those who need to access services? We will also showcase faculty's finished and ongoing research to highlight the importance of researching gender in rural communities.
