

College of Health and Life Sciences
in partnership with the Senior Companion and Foster Grandparent Programs
present:

The Affordable Care Act:

Where Do We Go From Here? (and where are we, anyway?)

It's been more than three years since the passage of the Affordable Care Act (ACA). In that time, the Supreme Court has weighed in, and a national election has been held. With much of the ACA scheduled to take effect in January 2014, many people still do not understand the law or how it will impact them. This is a chance to lower the political heat and shed some light on the issue. Sheldon Weisgrau will discuss health care, health insurance, and why health reform is an important public policy issue. Sheldon will talk about the ACA, how it may (or may not) address problems in the health system, and the impact of the law on consumers, health care providers and businesses. After attending this session, you will have a much clearer picture of what is and is not in the law, how it affects you and your community, and what we all can expect in the coming months.

Sheldon Weisgrau
Director of the Health Reform Resource Project
October 15, 2013

3:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m.: Presentation
4:30 p.m.-5 p.m.: Q&A
Memorial Union Ballroom

This event is FREE and open to the public.

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Sheldon Weisgrau is the Director of the Health Reform Resource Project, a foundation-funded initiative to provide education and technical assistance to consumers and other stakeholders in the implementation of health reform and the Affordable Care Act in Kansas. Sheldon has 30 years of experience in health policy and has worked effectively in the public, private, and non-profit sectors to ensure the delivery of health care services in rural and underserved communities and to enhance the knowledge and engagement of health care consumers, providers, and policymakers. Sheldon earned his undergraduate degree from Cornell University and a master's degree in health policy and management from the Johns Hopkins University School of Public Health.

FORT HAYS STATE UNIVERSITY

Forward thinking. World ready.