FHSU'S 102ND HOMECOMING AN UNFORGETTABLE SUCCESS

10/11/22

Homecoming weekend at Fort Hays State University reminds alumni and community members alike of the value of coming together. Familiar faces from the 50 and 60-year reunion classes shared memories, jokes, and stories about their time at Fort Hays State. Those visiting for the first time in years felt nostalgia as they toured campus and stopped by new buildings and recently renovated spaces.

Accomplishments and Happenings

SOCIOCULTURAL INEQUALITIES AND ECONOMIC ABUSE IN INTIMATE PARTNER VIOLENCE IN RURAL AMERICA

05/15/22

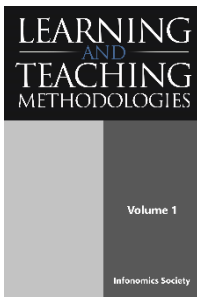

Dr. Ziwei Qi, assistant professor of criminal justice, along with Garrett McBlair, former FHSU criminal justice major, and Megan Shepard, current sociology major and undergraduate researcher for the Center for Empowering Victims of Gender-based Violence, published an article in The Reproduction and Maintenance of Inequalities in Interpersonal Relationships. The article examines various challenges and obstacles experienced by rural intimate partner violence victims. It also provides strength-based solutions to break the cycle of generational violence.

AGRICULTURAL TECHNOLOGY

06/15/22

Dr. Paul Nienkamp, associate professor and chair of the department of history, published a chapter in "A Companion to American Agricultural History" in June. The chapter explores technology and technology use from the pre-Columbian era to the present in North America.

LEARNING BY DOING – ENGAGING STUDENTS IN A CULTURE OF EXPERIENTIAL-LEARNING IN A CRIMINAL JUSTICE PROGRAM

2022

Dr. Tamara Lynn, chair and associate professor of criminal justice, Dr. April Terry, associate professor of criminal justice, Dr. Ziwei Qi, assistant professor of criminal justice, and Morgan Steele, assistant professor of criminal justice recently published a chapter in "Learning and Teaching Methodologies, Volume 1." The chapter highlights the value of incorporating experiential learning into teaching research methods, encouraging students to engage in problem-solving, and promoting activism.

NEGOTIATED MANAGEMENT AS A TOOL TO ACHIEVE SOCIAL CONTROL OVER POLITICAL PROTESTS AND SOCIAL MOVEMENT ORGANIZATIONS

09/01/22

Tamara Lynn, chair and associate professor of criminal justice published an article in the September edition of "Advances in Social Sciences Research." Lynn's research increases understanding of law enforcement responses to political protest groups. She discusses that organizations that fail or choose not to engage in informal social control of their members risk escalated force by police agencies seeking compliance.

MEET AYANNA HENSLEY

10/13/22

Simply put, I created this column so that I could write stories about remarkable people like the reigning Miss Kansas, Ayanna Hensley. Life for Ayanna was a challenge from the start. She grew up in Dodge City, the child of two parents whose substance abuse issues led to related criminal activity. She never knew what would happen when she got up each day or what awaited her after the school day.
