Features

Sternberg provides summer full of science

If birds of a feather flock together, so do children interested in science.

The Fort Hays State University's Sternberg Museum of Natural History. At least, that's been the case for the summer science camps hosted by the museum.

During the summer camp, participants are challenged with hands-on activities that bring a new level of understanding to science.

Two recent camps were held this summer, with more scheduled for the remainder of the summer.

FHSU Foundation selects Williby as new president

The Fort Hays State University Foundation has named Jason Williby as its new president, effective June 30.

Williby had served as director of development since 2014 and has been involved with the university's fundraising arm since 2009.

He will transition into the role on July 1, filling the position vacated by Tim Chapman, who announced in January he was stepping down.

FHSU students' mission is a trip to Haiti

A group of Fort Hays State University students plan to travel to Haiti over the coming months, giving back to the island nation.

They plan to spend a week living and working in their host community, helping those in need.

The students are part of the university's Hispanic Initiative Corps program and will be accompanied by a faculty mentor.

FHSU alumni featured on The Late Show

A Fort Hays State University alumnus was featured on the popular TV show The Late Show with Stephen Colbert.

FHSU engineering student YouthWorks participant

A Fort Hays State University chemical engineering student was named a YouthWorks Participant.

The program is designed to help students from disadvantaged backgrounds pursue higher education and careers in science, technology, engineering, and math.

FHSU MDC to offer 'Financial Intelligence for the Non-Financial Manager' workshop

The Third in the Management Development Center at Fort Hays State University summer workshop series is "Financial Intelligence for the Non-Financial Manager" from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Wednesday, July 13.

"Non-Financial Manager" is one of two workshops available this summer focused on the concept of financial intelligence.

"Non-Financial Manager," which focuses on understanding basic financial metrics needed to make wise business decisions, will be led by Dr. Lorie Cook-Benjamin, provost and vice president of academic affairs.

FHSU's inaugural HCI is all about 'familia'

The Fort Hays State University's Hispanic Initiative Corps on Tuesday unveiled the first stage of its "The Journey" project.

"Familia" is the first stage of the project, which will serve as an outdoor space for student volunteers to share their culture with others.

FHSU graduates give back as leaders of HCI

A group of Fort Hays State University students are giving back as leaders of the Hispanic Initiative Corps.

More than 60 students are participating in the corps, which is working on a number of projects aimed at improving the local community.

FHSU faculty member named 2016 Tillman Scholar

Seth Kastle, instructor of leadership studies at Fort Hays State University, was named a 2016 Tillman Scholar by the Pat Tillman Foundation.

The Tillman Scholars Program recognizes recent college graduates who have served in the U.S. Armed Services and are now pursuing a graduate degree.

Office of University Relations and Marketing    Hammond Hall   785-628-4206    FHSUNews@fhsu.edu

To subscribe or unsubscribe

Do you have good news to share?