Changes in scholarship programs make FHSU even more affordable

Incoming freshmen to Fort Hays State University will see a significant raise in ACT/SAT scholarships for the 2016-17 school year.

In the past, the top award to first-time freshmen with an ACT of 30 or higher was $3,200. That total included a one-time $2,000 presidential award and a $1,200 award renewable for three additional years.

FHSU staff member creates scholarship to honor her father

Nicole Frank's father was more than influential in her life. He was incredibly giving of himself throughout the course of his life, so it only seemed appropriate to honor him with a gift to others.

This led Frank, the coordinator of adjunct support and engagement with Fort Hays State University's Virtual College, to work in conjunction with the Fort Hays State University Foundation to set up the Harold J. Frank Memorial Scholarship to support FHSU students.

Emerald Ball tickets on sale

An indoor training facility at Fort Hays State University will be transformed in November to provide the setting for a formal ball that will raise awareness and funds to fight Parkinson's disease.

Red Flag Campaign comes to campus

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month, and the Women's Leadership Project plans to educate the Fort Hays State University campus about red flags that indicate potential domestic violence.

Benefit exhibition to help former art student, instructor afford brain surgery

Brian Hutchinson, a former Fort Hays State University student and instructor, is facing pricey medical bills after brain surgery, and to help lower the costs for him, his wife and two children, the Hays Arts Council will host a benefit exhibition from 7 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 23, and noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 24, at the Annex Gallery, 1010 Main.
